

Don't Eat That!

User's Manual

Don't Eat That! is a web application that can be used to compare two food items and see their nutritional information, along with a recommendation of which food item is healthier. To start, enter two foods that you want to compare into the text boxes. Make sure to enter two different food items! For the best search results, try to be specific and spell the food items correctly.

The screenshot shows the web application interface. At the top is a navigation bar with the logo "DON'T EAT THAT!" and links for "About", "How It Works", and "Contact". On the right side of the navigation bar are "Signup" and "Login" buttons. Below the navigation bar is the main heading "DON'T EAT THAT!" in a large, blue, stylized font. Underneath the heading is the text "Not sure what to eat? Pop it in and we'll tell you!". The main content area contains two text input boxes labeled "Enter food item 1" and "Enter food item 2". Below these boxes are two buttons: a blue "Compare" button and a red "Clear Choices" button. Three numbered red circles with arrows point to the interface elements: (1) points to the "Enter food item 1" box with the text "Enter food item 1 here"; (2) points to the "Enter food item 2" box with the text "Enter food item 1 here"; and (3) points to the "Compare" button with the text "Click Compare button to compare food items". At the bottom of the interface is a disclaimer: "Disclaimer: This web application does not replace a dietitian. It only serves as a quick guide to healthier food choices." Below the disclaimer is a small logo for "Powered by fatsecret" and a copyright notice: "© 2016 Don't Eat That!, Inc. WTFPL".
